Notes:

- 1. Aboriginal identity refers to whether the person identified with the Aboriginal peoples of Canada. This includes those who are First Nations (North American Indian), Métis or Inuk (Inuit) and/or those who are Registered or Treaty Indians (that is, registered under the Indian Act of Canada) and/or those who have membership in a First Nation or Indian band. Aboriginal peoples of Canada are defined in the Constitution Act, 1982, section 35 (2) as including the Indian, Inuit and Métis peoples of Canada.
- 2. The % of Total Population shows the number of people who identify with the Aboriginal Peoples of Canada in a given geographical area divided by the total population in the same geographical area.
- 3. Christian Island 30 and Christian Island 30A data are combined.
- Users should be aware that the estimates associated with this variable are more affected than most by the incomplete enumeration of certain Indian reserves and Indian settlements in the 2016 Census of Population.
- To ensure confidentiality, the values, including total are randomly rounded either up or down to a multiple of 5 or 10. As a result, when these data are summed or grouped, the total value may not match the individual values since totals and sub-totals are independently rounded.

The methodology on reserve was comparable between 2006 and 2016. Statistics Canada notes that "population estimates for concepts such as Aboriginal identity and Registered or Treaty Indian status are influenced by numerous factors. Users should be aware that point estimates and changes over time are influenced by a combination of natural growth, changes to coverage and to measurement, and other factors affecting how people self-identify. It is not possible to quantify the impact these changes have in isolation from each other." (Statistics Canada, 2017b). For more information on comparability, please see the Aboriginal Peoples Reference Guide, Census of Population, 2016.
